"RAHBLES IN CALIFORNIA; containing 8 Description of the Country-Life at the Mines-State of Society, &c., by Pringle Shaw,"-is the title of a neat little work of nearly 250 pages. As yet we have not had time to reed it through, but from a cursory glanca we perceive it is written in a clever style and in an interesting manner, intersparsed with racy anecdotes. Next week we may probably give a chapter, in order that our readers may be enabled to form an idea of the character of the work.

The change which has been going on in the farming of the older States since 1810 has been more marked in theep husbander than any other branch. From 1810 to 1850, the total increase in the number of sheep was not far from five millions, while the decrease was about three millions, leaving the actual increase at only some two millions in the ten years whereas by the natural law of increase the entire stock should have been at least doubled.

The decrease was in the older States, must of st in New England and New York, and almost entirely in fine wooled sheep. In the State of New York alone, since 1810, the decrease exceeds four millions, and there were not as many sheep in this State in 1855 as in 1821.

Since 1850, there has been no sensible increase in any State, while there has been during the last three years a decrease in Ohio and There was but one way that appeared possible-they might lower rupes from the top of the cliff; but should I have the courage or the strength required for the ascent I Yes, if it comes to that, must find resolution to meet a danger which scarcely equalled that to which I had been already exposed. I knew not how long a time elapsed; for I had neglected to wind up my watch; but it seemed hours before I saw or heard anything of the promised assistance. At last I heard, through the morn- Barege, do. It was shaken, however, Prospect-st, Newmarket, 1857. by the men, and still swinging backward and Watching my opportunity, I caught the end and drew it towards me. I had a loop tied in sailors' fashion, and I knew that would not slip; but alas! the line was but small, and I much doubted if it could bear my weight-perhaps the men had underrated that-for I was near six feet submitting his neck to the gentle attentions of the hangman, ever experienced a more deadly sensation than I did at that moment A cold sweat stood on my brow, and my heart boat audibly as I passed the cord bround 'my chest, and secured it in front with the best knot I was master of. Then I kneeled and looked up to the clear sky, and in a few fervent words commended myself to the Di vine protection. The men above called out-" Say when you are ready."

I looked up, waved my hand, and cried-" Now !" and feeling the rope tightening and lifting me, swung myself from the ledge, keeping my eyes fixed on the chill as I tell Hinmyself slowly rising. Perently there was a stop, and, looking up I found that I was about a hundred feet from the top. I cold sea but one of the men's heads, and he was in the act of removing a large fragment of chalk which had been disturbed by the friction of the rope, and which, if it had fallen on my head must have killed me instantly. He did succeed in removing it, but, as I atterwards learned, I was held by his one companion alone while his hands were so occupied. I began to ascend, and hope r. turned. I heard the voice of my deliverers "as they gave each other the word to haul together; and I rose, and rose, and at last felt my wrists seized by a friendly grasp, and fell stretched upon the turf. I just heard the hurran that was uttered, and then for a time lost all consciousness. When I revived, I found mixelf in bed of a little inn, where, by the aid of kind and hands are ever ready to bestow, I recovered in a lew hours from the effects of my peril-watchful care, such as English hearts and ous Birenture. It may readily be supposed that such an escape became the prevailing topic of convertation, and that I was for some days "the observed of all observers." The impression left on my own mind I will not attempt to describe. Those who read my parrative will believe how earnestly and heartily at church on the following Sunday ness for daily preservation with which the Episcopal Liturgy abounds. On that same Sunday evening, when alone unobserved, I walked at sunset on the beach, and looked again upon the face of that terrible cliff, how deeply did I feel the force and beauty of those passages of the Pealms which had already cheered me during the lonely watches of that memorable night! With the Pealter in my hand. I lingered, reading and musing till the daylight Inded, and then the moon rose in colin serenity from the blue horizon of the wide waters, and I read again by her light, which seemed to impart a glow of sanctity to the inspired words: " Whoso dwelleth under the defence of the Most High, shall shide under the shadow of the Almighty. He shall defend thee under his wings, and thou shalt be safe under his feathers; his faithfulness and truth shall be thy shield and buckler: My soul hangeth upon thee, thy right hand hath upholden me.-Thou shalt make room enough under me for to go, that my footsteps shall not slide: I will lift up mine eyes unto the hills from whence cometh even from the Lord who hath mede heaven and earth. He will not suffer thy foot to be moved, and he that keepeth thee will not sleep. The Lord hinzelf is thy keeper, the Lord is thy defence upon thy right hand." -- Ladies' Repository.

THE UNOFFICIAL GOVERNMENT .- Mr. BROWN, and his friends in the House, have compelled the government, if it can be called the proof of the former. one, to adopt the principle of "The Voter's Remember the Rutablishment is B1 Yonge Et. There is one reason apart from all others, that would make us support such a measure, viz, the borrid bad use which Irish & Scotch Whiskey is made of what ought to be a most solemn appeal to the Supreme Ruler of the universe .-Oaths are administered in the most trifling man. THE subscribers have just received a few Hogs. ner, and by persons not fitted by nature, Dablin and London PORTER, in plat and quart position, or grace, for such a very important business. The frequency too, with which ouths | Bats, Abbott's and Younger's ALE, to plats and are put, and the irreverent manner in which they are administered; make ouths of little importance, and destroys the very use intended by their introduction. If there were no other reason therefore for approving of Mr. Brown's measure, or rather the measure of the conspirators, we half its success with pleasure. But nothing can be more necessary than regit of FISH, such as Codfish, Herrings, Mackerel latration t the franchise can never be correct. ly exercised, without it; and as a new election treamnot be far distant, there ought to be a Heg. istration Law immediately passed .- States.
